CITY MANAGER GIVES ANNEXATION REPORT FOR LAKE DISTRICT

Study of Features Involved in Proposed Annexation Discussed at Meeting Here Tuesday Evening

The second meeting at which the annexation of the Emerald Lake and Oak Knoll district to Redwood City was discussed was held Wednesday evening at the Central school on Broadway with about 100 persons present including the city councilmen, City Engineer Dimmitt, City Manager Rolison and chamber of commerce officers. The meeting was presided over by Carl Wagner.

This meeting was the result of a meeting held on May 20, at which the matter was informally discussed, and at which time City Manager Rolison was asked to make a report on various matters connected with the proposal. This report was rendered at the meeting Wednesday evening.

Rolison's report after briefly reviewing the previous meeting says:

"While much valuable information on the subject was furnished by various spokesmen, no definite conclusion was arrived at due to the absence of certain fundamental data which were not available at the time. However ,it was the general sense of the meeting that the estimated cost of service to be rendered by the municipality in the event of annexation should be determined and that assessed values of the proposed district be so adjusted that when the city's prevailing tax rate were to be applied that it would provide sufficient funds with which to at least maintain and operate those governmental functions within the areas in question, there being some difference of opinion as to whether or not certain capital expenditures such as fire equipment, etc., should be born directly by the district under discussion or the city at large.

"After much discussion on the above subject in acquiescense of my proposal to attempt the preparation of a report that would contain the necessary data upon which it might be possible to reach a final conclu-,sion, it was voted and carried that I prepare such a report and submit the same at a future meeting at which time the matter would be given further consideration.

In accordance with the above understanding, I am herewith presenting such data as occur to me may be of value in the ultimate determination of the matter under discussion. all of which is subject to modification and which is hoped will be accepted in th esame spirit that it is being submitted.

"Briefly, the district suggested as shown on the map attached includes what is commonly known as the Emerald Lake District together with a small adjacent area making a total of approximately 1,080 acres or 1.7 square miles which ranges in elevation from 150 to 600 feet above sea level. Unsurfaced dirt roadways totaling a length of approximately twenty-six miles are interwoven throughout the entire area to coincide with property lines and topographic conditions which are all irregular. Three hundred and eighteen water consumers are now being served by the water distribution system in what is commonly known as the Emerald Lake District now operated by private interests under the jurisdiction of the California Railroad Commission and an additional twenty-three consumers are being served by the Redwood City municipal plant in the adjacent area which it is suggested be included, making the total number of water services 341 in the entire district. The estimated population based on four persons per service would make a total of 1,364. While of course this is not an accurate figure it would seem reasonable to assume that the normal population, not including vacation and week-end periods, in the total area, would range from 1,200 to 1,500. Land values used for county assessment purposes are the sum of $230,435.00 and improvements of $98,850.00, making the total assessed valuation the sum of $329,285.00."

The valuations of land and improvements in the various subdivisions of the district are then given and the report continues:

"The total county tax rate applicable to the above district last year including fire protection which is being being refunded due to the fact that this service was not provided was $9.163 per $100 of assessed valuation and the total sum to be raised was $30,172.38. Should this same territory become annexed to Redwood City, however, then a county tax rate of only $5.243 would apply, the same as is now in effect within the corporate limits of the city. Applying this lower rate to same valuation the total county taxes in the event of annexation for the same area would only be the sum of $17,264.21 or a difference of $12,908.17 in the event fire protection were to be included.

"The highest tax that the City could legally apply should annexation take place based on last year's rate would have been 84c per $100 of assessed valuation for general purposes and ten cents for library purposes. Therefore, in order to raise an amount for city purposes equal to the above or approximately $13,000.00 it would be necessary to increase valuation for city assessment purpose from $329,285.00 to $1,373,200 or in theory individual assessment if multiplied by the common factor 4.175 and a city tax rate applied of 94c would produce revenues for city purposes approximately equal to the difference between last year's county tax rate including fire protection and what the county would have collected in the event of annexation.

"As there is no definite criterion that may be used for the purpose of determining proper expenditures for governmental service to be rendered, it would seem that willingness and ability of the public to pay should be the determining factor as to the extent of such service. After consultation with the heads of the various departments, the following table has been prepared to show in detail the extent and nature of service that it might be possible to render by limiting expenditures for annual maintenance and operation to the sum of $13,000.00 for the present and increasing the same from time to time as more values are added to the assessment roll and more funds become available. This, however, does not include many incidentals which must be paid out of the general funds of the city such as additional clerical help and many other miscellaneous expenditures."

The city manager then took up in his report the sewage disposal, water supply, street system and street lighting, fire and police protection and other functions of the city government which would have to be extended to the district involved.

In regard to providing fire protection the report says:

"Fire protection which naturally represents one of the most vital necessities to any community has been carefully considered and the proposed plan is to maintain in full time service a proper piece of equipment at some appropriate location backed up at all times by the city's entire fire fighting facilities. Capital costs in connection with this service as well as all others, it has been assumed, will be financed in a way that the burden will be spread over the entire city. While an attempt has been made to indicate what some of these expenditures will be, no allowance has been made for the cost of a suitable location in the event of annexation must be later determined."

In conclusion Rolison's report sums up the benefits to be derived by the district in annexation, and the benefits which would accrue to the city. These are grouped as follows:

"While for the present and sometime to come annexation of the district under consideration in accordance with the plan suggested will add to the normal governmental costs of the city under its present status, indirect benefits, I believe, which cannot be calculated in monetary value together with the ultimate development of the area involved, at which time increased values will be added to the assessment roll, make it advisable and good business for the city to encourage annexation to the extent of carrying a portion of the burden until such time as the district within itself may become selfsustaining.

"Most certainly the development of this area in keeping with modern city planning and under proper supervision with reference to health and sanitation will reflect favorably upon the entire community and help materially to bring about an ultimate bigger, better and more beautiful Redwood City.

"Obviously some regulation and protection is required in the upbuilding of any community in keep-

$ D-A-Y

The Retailers' Semi-annual Dollar Day will be the leading event in Redwood City today, out-classing, it is believed, even the Flood trial. Dollar Day, an event sponsored by the local merchants in order to attract the attention of the people of Redwood City to the advantages of shopping in Redwood City every day of the year, has met with unusual success in the past and today, with even better bargains offered for one dollar, the event should attract even greater throngs of people.

Among the merchants who are making this semi-annual event possible are Hull Bros. Hardware, who are offering a splendid list of garden and household needs; Hearne's Dry goods Store, with an unusual list of bargains for both men and women; G. B. Disbrow, leather dealer, is offering bargains in luggage and in leather goods; H. B. Gardiner offers splendid values in men's goods or one dollar, and L. N. McNeil is offering specials on linoleum, furniture polish and bath mats. These are only a few of the bargains which the merchants have offered to make Dollar Day an outstanding success.

Daly City Will Take in Colma; Council States

Formal Amalgamation of Two Territories Set for Aug. 10th

The city council of Daly City has signified its approval of a plan to join Colma with Daly City. The matter was placed before the people of Colma last week at a special election, and the returns showed the people of the territory involved to favor the amalgamation of the district. The vote stood 91 for the proposed merger and 61 opposed to it.

The formal acceptance of the territory by the city council of Daly City has been set for August 10. The merger of the two communities will increase Daly City's population to approximately 10,000 and will add about 400 homes to that city. The merger will also provide the people of Colma with water and fire and police protection.

Menlo Council Opposes Track

The Menlo Park city council has joined with the councils of South San Francisco, San Carlos and Atherton in opposing by resolution any further extension of horse racing in San Mateo county. A resolution opposing the granting of a permit by the county supervisors for any race tracks was passed by the city council of Menlo Park, Tuesday evening, and received the unanimous vote of the board. Similar resolutions have been passed by the city councils of South San Francisco, Atherton and San Carlos.

JAPANESE GROWERS PROMISE FLOWERS FOR KIKU MATSURI

Finest Display of Chrysanthemums in World Promised During Three Days of Chrysanthemum Festival Here On October 1st to 3rd

Redwood City will have one of the finest displays of chrysanthemums ever seen in the United States during its Kiku Matsuri, or chrysanthemum festival, which will occur from October 1st to 3rd. The Japanese Chrysanthemum Growers' Association at a meeting this week voted to supply living flowers to decorate the town during the festival and will keep fresh flowers on display during the entire time.

Redwood City is in the heart of one of the finest chrysanthemum producing sections in the world, and the annual crop of this particular flower is valued at about $10,000,000 for this county. The Japanese growers, who practically control the industry of flower raising, have produced some of the finest blooms in this county that have ever been grown. Various types of chrysanthemums, from tiny buttons to large blooms as big as plates, will be provided for display during the festival.

Two Cars Bump at Broadway Corner

The intersection of Broadway and Jefferson street was the scene of a collision Wednesday in which two cars were damaged but in which the drivers escaped uninjured. The crash occured at 11:40 as R. C. Young of the Benson hotel was driving west on Broadway and Harry DeBaere, 2956 22nd street, San Francisco, was going north on Jefferson. Damages to both machines were covered by insurance.

Purchaser of Plane Sought In Check Case

Curtiss-Wright Airport Loses $350 to Bad Check Passer

A man who gave his name as H. L. Manning is being sought by peninsula police on a charge of having passed a bad check for $2000 on the Curtiss Wright airport in San Mateo.

Manning approached Frank Buchanan at the field in regard to buying a plane. He told that he was the son of a wealthy department store owner of Montreal, Canada. Buchanan, himself from Montreal, talked of Canada and of Montreal, and thought that the man seemed genuine in his statements. Manning made arrangements to purchase a plane and gave a check for $2000 on the Bank of Montreal as first payment on the machine. He received $350 as change, and said that he would return to take lessons in flying.

Manning failed to return, and a phone call to Montreal disclosed that he was not known there and that the check was worthless. A warrant was sworn out for his arrest by Buchanan.

Land Title for Sunnyvale Base Soon Complete

Only two minor details remained this week in clearing the title of the Sunnyvale air base, and work is expected to be started on the base within the next three weeks. The only details which remained were the securing of a permit from the secretary of the navy for the P. G. & E. Co. to maintain a gas main across the property, and a permit from the California Railroad Commission for the abandonment of another gas main on the same property.

These, it is believed will take but a few days to straighten out, and deeds to the property will be presented to the navy officials by the San Francisco chamber of commerce.

MRS. WILLETTE GRILLED ON STATEMENTS ABOUT FATHER OF MRS. GAVIN

Affidavit States Mrs. Forde Went to Floo' After Baby's Birth and Told Him He "Had To Do Something"

Marking her third day on the witness stand, Mrs. Eudora Willette was the center of attraction at the court hearing of the Flood will trial yesterday. Mrs. Willette went on the stand Tuesday afternoon, and has been subjected to a rapidfire cross-examination at the hands of John Taaffe, attorney for Mrs. Gavin ever since her short direct testimony was given.

Taaffe's questioning related chiefly to statements made by Mrs. Willette in her depositions, parts of which he read to the court.

The highlight of the evidence introduced during yesterday's session was an affidavit given under oath by Mrs. Willette in 1927 in which she stated:

"I have never signed any affidavit in connection with anything to do with the child now known as Constance May Gavin. The only document I ever signed in this connection was a receipt presented to me by Atty. Kowalski for the payment of money, $5000 from James Flood.

"This document I did not look at, and am not certain that the check was for $5000, as I never saw it. Kowalski told me that it was and I never even looked at the wording of the paper he presented, just signed as he told me, for he was my attorney introduced for that purpose by Mr. Friedlander, then manager of the old Columbia Theater on Powell street.

"I first met James Flood in 1892 and in May 11, 1893, Constance was born of the friendship that existed between Mr. Flood and myself. I met Rose Flood a few weeks after Constance was born, my mother went first to the Flood home, 1890 Page street, to demand that they take Constance and give her the advantage to which the Flood money made her entitled.

"Jim acquiesed right away and the next day I went out to take Constance, and we stayed there over night. Mrs. Flood had had everything prepared for the presence of the baby to which she took a great liking, and in the weeks that followed she developed a great love for the child.

"The result of that visit was the Floods arranged to take the child and bring it up. It was a great struggle for me to give the baby up, but I felt that I would never be able to give her the advantages that she would receive in the home of the Floods.

"Rose was afraid that scandal would attend upon the child coming into her home and she had enjoined me to secrecy, as she made all plans to pave the way for the advent of the child as hers and wrote her people to the effect that she was to become a mother.

"When this was done I left little Constance with her, and from then on she became known as the child of James Flood and his wife."

Mrs. Willette's testimony yesterday lead to a number of contradictions which were eagerly pounced upon by Taaffe.

It is reported that Mrs. Maude Flood is on her way from New York and will be placed on the stand early next week.

The Tuesday session of the court was a dramatic one with both Alfredeta Forde and her daughter Mrs. Willette on the stand. Both women were called by Attorney Theodore Roche in an effort to discredit the testimony which has been given by Mrs. Gavin and her witnesses.

The morning session of the court was taken up with the testimony of Mrs. Forde. After telling of her activities on the stage, how she had once been congratulated by Prisident Lincoln upon her performance, and how she was present in Ford's Theatre in Washington on the evening that the president was shot, Mrs. Forde told of coming to San Francisco, and how she and her two children lived from one rooming house to another, always moving because they were too poor to pay the rent.

From this picture of poverty Mrs. Forde continued to draw from her memories of the past, how her unwed daughter had told her that she was to become a mother. This was the part of the evidence which the attorneys for the Flood estate wished to bring out, it was Mrs. Forde's reason for being present.

Asked by Theodore Roche whether she knew who was the father of the girl to whom her daughter gave birth, Mrs. Forde replied, "I know, because my daughter told me as soon as she discovered that she was going to have a baby. It was James Cannon, a property man at the Grove Street theatre."

Mrs. Forde said that James Flood and his wife Rose Flood took the baby to care for because "she felt pity for our destitute plight."

A baptismal certificate was introduced by attorneys opposing Mrs. Gavin's claim. The certificate showed the record of baptism of Constance Margaret Stern. The mother was recorded as Eudora Forde and the father as Victor Stern.

This was the Stern mentioned as a mythical character by Mrs. Willette in her first deposition when she tried to explain an affidavit made by her some years ago in which sre swore before a notary public that the child's father was an Edward Stern. She claimed at that time that the name was just one which made up when asked to name the father of the child.

John J. Taffe, of counsel for Mrs. Gavin, scored a point, however when he cross-examined the first Flood witness, Bishop James Cantwell of San Francisco, and drew from him a statement that the certificate had been kept "in the secret archives at St. Mary's because we knew there was something the matter with the marriage."

According to the baptismal certificate, a document the existence of which had not been generally known Mrs. Gavin was baptized in St. Mary's Cathedral, Van Ness ave., San Francisco, on May 19, 1893, just eight days after the birth. Father Edward J. Doran, who died two years ago officiated.

Bishop Cantwell of the diocese of St. Bridget's Church, San Francisco, was put on the stand by Roche to identify the certificate.

"Where was this record kept?" demanded Taaffe on cross-examination.

"In the private archives of St. Mary's Cathedral."

"Why was it kept in the private archive instead of in the open record where it belonged?"

"Because we knew there was something the matter with the marriage."

Bishop Cantwell was not asked what this "something the matter" was and left the stand without an explanation.

The name of Victor Stern on the certificate adds another to the list of possible fathers. Evidently this was the first name given as the father by Mrs. Willette as it was given just a few days after the birth of the child. Later she stated that the father was Edward Stern. In a lenghty deposition made in the court here Mrs. Willette stated that the father was James Flood, and went into detail concerning her relations with the late millionaire. After holding to this story for some years, she suddenly recanted, and declaring that all she has said was untrue, she told a new story in her last deposition and named James Cannon as the father of her child.

On the stand Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Gavin was questioned by Theodore Roche, attorney for the Flood heirs. "Prior to the birth of your child had you ever heard of James L. Flood?" Roche asked.

"No," said the witness.

"Had you ever been intimate with James L. Flood?"

"No."

"At that time had you ever spoken to Mr. Flood?"

"No."

"Had you ever written to him?"

"No."

"Did you tell your mother of your condition?"

"Yes."

"Did you reveal to her that James Cannon was the father of your child?"

"Yes."

The witness then went into the assumption of the name of Stearn after the child's birth and cleared up a seeming mixup in the birth record. On the baptismal certificate signed by Father Edward J. Doran, May 11, 1893, and found after his death among his possessions, the name "Victor Stern" appears as the father.

When she testified on this subject in her deposition, Mrs. Willette said that she "might have heard" such a name and used it as the name of the spiritual father. At one time, she said, she thought the name was that of a race horse.

The Public Schools

"This is a democracy. Upon that rock is builded our public school system. The two are linked by indissoluble ties. They are equal partners and sharers in the struggles and successes of an advancing race," writes Dennis Brummitt, Attorney General, State of North Carolina, in the United States Daily. He continued, in part:

"This school system must fit the ultimate purpose of the social and political institutions of which it is a part. That purpose is not culture alone; it is not national power; nor is it simply training for leadership. It is all of these in part, and yet more than all of these in the whole. There are other and more basic needs in a twentieth century social order.

"We have approached democracy in the political control of government. The policies and actions of parties and office holders recurrently come up for review by the people. For the present, at least, we continue to choose our public officials. . . .

"Democracy and the public school system, working together, have brought government under the control of the average man. Again, in concert, they have opened the doors of the schoolhouse to all on equal terms. Together they must find the soution of our social and economic problems. To the educated citizenship of the future, democracy must, and will be not simply the substance of things hoped for, but the evidence of things known. . . .

"We have come to a new economic age. It is one wherein more than ever before the interest of one is that of all. For the future, business problems will revolve around, not the production of goods, but their consumption. Prosperity will depend more and more upon the increasing number of those able to buy, and thus share in the comforts and conveniences of life. Agriculture and industry cannot continue at the level which machinery has now established unless they find a market for their products in the buying power of the whole adult population, gainfully employed. Unless we meet this new challenge, we have reached the point of diminishing returns from our utilization of this marvelous energy.

"Here, then, is the great task of democracy and the public school system. In the past they have acted together; in the future they must continue to do so. They must act together and thus preserve our individualistic system of industry, agriculture, government, society. Within that system mankind may grow, character be built, and a great civilization be developed. It beckons with glamorous appeal to youth. For it tests his powers, calls forth the best that is in him, offers him a free field, equal opportunity, and the just reward of his merits and his efforts.

"These two do not work alone here. At this point, upon one great highway meet all the forces which control or affect human life. Here, then, is the task of all these—of religion, education, industry, business, economics. All the successes which lie behind us, all our rich dreams for the future, meet and cling, and here color what we must or will do.

"This public school system must produce the necessary leadership. But that alone is not sufficient. In this age no great question can be settled outside of the will and desire of the mass of the people.

"In all ages men have sought to adjust the mechanism they use to the load to be carried. It was so in the time of the wooden plow and physical energy alone. It must be so now in this age of power. The task of the educational machine grows, not lighter but heavier.

A Theatre in Your Home

Drawing aside, for an instant, the veil of secrecy that enshrouds the vast radio laboratories at Camden, New Jersey, Doctor W. R. G. Baker, vice-president of the RCA Victor Company, allows a brief glimpse at the radio marvels of the future which scientists are creating there. The day is in sight when every new home costing $10,000 will have a room somewhere fitted up exclusively for radio-electrical entertainment, said Doctor Baker. The "Home Theatre" will become another American institution. Television and home talkies will share room with a radio news bulletin, and talking books, that read themselves aloud for those who wish to save their eyes. Just as the "Home Theatre" will not interfere with the public theatre, the radio bulletin will merely supplement the newspaper, by flashing spot news dispatches and photographs to the home. Doctor Baker said. These are only a few of the wonders being developed at "Radio Headquarters," as Doctor Baker terms the vast engineering and manufacturing facilities centered at Camden. The laboratories that have developed the present-day radio sets and phonographs, said Doctor Baker, will bring forth new marvels that may change the whole trend of future life.

Decadent Rackateers

A car load of gunmen drove through a New York tenement district Tuesday evening and shot five children with machine gun bullets in an effort to put another gangster "on the spot." The man they were after was not hit although police dug 40 machine gun slugs out of the wall by which he was standing.

Just another event in New York's "beer war," but two of the five children may die, and the others were seriously injured.

The highwayman of pony express days, the Camanche of the Santa Fe Trail, the Hounds and Regulators of San Francisco's Sydney Town were gentlemen compared to the white livered breed of sneaking vermin which thrive in the cesspools of the "racket."

To this type of bilgewater hoodlums the lives of a few children are nothing if they happen to be in the way of their guns. They are not even good shots. We can imagine the disgust of the "rackateers" of a few years back, of Jesse James or Joaquin Murietta, Slade or the rest, who took pride in never missing a mark with either gun or knife. Forty or fifty shots, five children struck, and the man upon whom the attack was made, unhurt. Their shooting is as rotten as their lives—their aim as vile as their methods—and their courage—well, it's not right to even include the word in the same paragraph with a mention of this breed of sewer rat.

Don't Eat in Dirty Places

In emphasizing the importance of wholesome food and the prevention of food poisoning, the Public Health Service says that while eating in hotels, restaurants or other public places one can never be sure that the food is properly cooked and handled in a sanitary manner but some degree of assurance maybe obtained by eating only in those places which to outward appearances are clean and where sanitary cleanliness extends to the toilet facilities provided, Where no provision is made for guests to wash their hands, it is safe to assume that the kitchen and dining room help are not provided with this necessary adjunct.

Back to the Diggin's

If industries are hit by the depression, one business at least sems to have gained impetus—prospecting. Many are taking the old trails through the foothills and up the reaches of the rivers.

Unemployment driving them on, the lure of a lucky strike pulling them, many such men are laboring in lonely California canyons today. Some friend or acquaintance, with a bit of gambling blood, provides the food, for a share of the profits. All that the miner supplies is brawn and time, both a drug on the market elsewhere.

That is one side of a small boom in California gold mining.

Another factor is that the value of gold rises with the buying power of the dollar. Many small mines are being opened, as the lower prices of labor, power and materials make it possible for them to operate at a profit for the first time since the war. These, of course, hire men and are a factor in reducing unemployment.

Editorial Circuit Rider

(A symposium of editorial comment from California newspapers)

California is "warming up" to the 1932 presidential election.

This interest, as interpreted by California editors, is aimed particularly at Herbert Hoover, with the understanding he will carry the banner of the Republican party by seeking re-election.

While the recent German financial crisis and the resulting moratorium and international parley has tended to dominate the political activities at Washington, many of the events have been interpreted from the viewpoint of the 1932 elections.

The re-nomination of Hoover is a "foregone conclusion" in the opinion of the Pasadena Star-News, for two major reasons.

"Hoover richly deserves the re-nomination. He has kept faith with his party and with the 1928 platform; he has given an able administration which has accomplished much good for the country," The Star-News asserts.

In line with this opinion, The Humboldt Standard believes that Hoover "will not diverge from the course mapped out for himself; he will not be stampeded into the adoption of any of the trick nostrums that have been proposed for the cure of the nation's ills."

The Bakersfield Californian, however, believes the Hoover forces should "go into a huddle." The suggestion is based on Hoover's reported contention that "the tariff contains no undesirable features," while at the same time, Secretary of War Hurley explains that the flexible provision in the tariff law "will eliminate many of the undesirable features."

In commenting on the oft-told story of how "Hoover was weaned away from the Democratic camp," "The Santa Ana Register declares that "Hoover's partisianship is past history." Anyway, the Democrats are leaning heavily on a man who changed his mind, too, namely Raskob.

The Hanford Daily Sentinel believes that President Hoover has been "a steadfast helmsman" and that those who have been sailing with him have confidence in his statesmanship.

Ex-president Calvin Coolidge is brought into the picture by the Pomona Progress-Bulletin with the notice that Cal's recent toleration of newspaper photographers was interpreted by some as an indication "the presidential bee has stung him again." The Pomona publication, however, doubts that Coolidge will "want to take that awful load again."

Now some business men are saying the worst of the depression is over; if enough of them feel that way about it, it is.

GAY ADVENTURERS
BY MILDRED BARBOUR

"Would it be asking too much to be allowed to know what she says?" asked Sheila.

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS

SHEILA ALLEN, bound for Europe in a tourist cabin, has a cabinmate,

CONSTANCE KERR, a millionaire's daughter, who is her twin in looks. Sheila, after years in a rural town, is seeking adventure.

She has refused to marry her guardian, YOUNG DOCTOR MALCOM BAXTER. Constance tells Sheila she is Heaven-sent-a means of escape from a terrible mess.

Constance is fleeing from her husband, THE COUNT DE BELLEFONTE, whom she married that morning.

She consented to marry him ,after a quarrel with HARRY EDMONDS, with whom she is desperately in love.

His letters begging her forgiveness are kept from her by her mother. She finds them immediately after her marriage. Realizing that she can never be the Count's wife, she takes passage for Europe at once. Harry is in England.

She begs Sheila to impersonate her in Paris for a few days, while she seeks Harry in London, to try to find a way out of her muddle.

Sheila, scenting adventure agrees.

Constance gives Sheila her clothes and coaches her for the role she is to play. A first-class passenger.

TOMMY FITZGERALD, an old beau of Constance's, sees Sheila and hails her as Constance. Sheila tells him he has made a mistake.

At Southampton Constance leaves the ship as Sheila Allen, with all of Sheila's effects, including her passport.

At Harve, Fitzgerald sees Sheila with Constance's passport and she says she is the heiress, and explains the tourist passage as payment of a bet. A strange woman embraces her as an old friend.

There she receives a message from the Count, who is in Paris.

Harry Edmonds arrives in Paris. Sheila is panic-stricken. She wonders where Constance is.

To escape both Harry and the informs her aunt in Baden-Baden that her neice is ill. The aunt radios Mr. Kerr, who radios Sheila that he is coming to Paris.

She succeeds in convising Aunt Sophia that her presence is not required in Paris. A message from Mr. Kerr tells that the his yacht is disabled and that he cannot come to Paris for some time.

Harry urges her to marry him immediately. She puts him off.

The Baronne is angry, for she wants a clear field for her stepson, CARLO, whom she is anxious to marry off.

To keep Harry pacified, Sheila agrees to announcing their engagement shortly.

Harry denies this and the Count challenges him to a duel.

Sheila, in desperation, to prevent the duel, confesses that she is not Constance Kerr.

Chapter 33—

Who Is She?

The Baronne's belligerent announcement that she intended calling in the police in her effort to find out whether her guest really was Constance Kerr brought startled protests from Harry Edmonds and the Count de Bellefonte, and a groan from Sheila.

"Please,' begged Sheila, don't think I have had any hand in bringing harm to Constance Kerr. What an absurd idea. You wicked woman!"

"Now this is all quite unnecessary," said the Count, shouting to make himself heard above the babble of voices. "A few moments ago I said that I had done something that I felt sure would clear up everything. Let me tell you about it. Miss Kerr's aunt, Miss Sophia Belden, is in Baden-Baden. I took it upon myself to get in touch with the lady this morning. Well, to make a long story short, I informed her that her presence is required here at once in a matter affecting the welfare of her niece."

"What did she reply?' breathed Sheila

"Her answer," said Bellefonte, "was this telegram."

He unfolded a slip of paper and handed it to the Baronne. She read it, with Harry and the Count looking over her shoulder.

"Would it be asking too much to be allowed to know what she says?" asked Sheila.

The Baronne ignored the request, but, when she had finished reading the message, Harry took it from her and gave it to Sheila.

"The old blister is very much wrought up,' he volunteered.

Sheila took the message and read:

"What is the matter now? I suppose my niece is about to marry some fortune-hunter and wants me to be on the ground to help her pacify her father when he arrives. It is an imposition to ask a woman of my age to inconvenience herself for a silly girl but I suppose I must or I will never hear the last of it. Leaving immediately.

"Sophia Belden"

"I'm surprised that she consented to come,' said the Baronne. "By the way, this message is addressed to me. How did you get it?'

"Well,' murmured the Count "I took the liberty of signing your name to the telegram to Miss Belden. Then I gave my host's address as yours and notified the telegraph-office that any message for you this morning was to be sent to the Villa Mora. I also invited Miss Belden to be your guest here."

The Baronne snorted with indignation at such a high-handed proceeding, but the Count was bland and smiling.

"My next suggestion,' he added, "is that we now dismiss the matter from our thoughts until Miss Belden arrives. Then we will put the problem up to her. If this young lady is not Constance Kerr. Miss Belden can deal with the situation, if she wishes to. In the meantime,' he said, turning to the Baronne, "will you again make yourself responsible for the appearance of your young guest in the morning,"

"I'll see that she doesn't get away," promised the Baronne. "Mathilde sleeps in the dressing-room off her bedroom, and she hears every sound."

"Until tomorrow, then,' said the Count, picking up his hat and stick. "Coming, Edmonds?"

Sheila went back to bed, and lay awake until daybreak, wondering what new worries Miss Belden's arrival would bring. She awoke from a restless slumber soon after nine o'clock and breakfasted in her room. The morning dragged and luncheon found her listless and without an appetite.

Early in the afternoon the Baronne appeared. "When Miss Belden arrives, don't you dare intimate anything of what has happened," she ordered. "The Count has persuaded Mr. Edmonds, against my protests, that it is better to say nothing of the perplexities you have caused us. His idea is to have Miss Belden meet you in the natural course of things, and, if she accepts you, there is nothing for us to do but to follow her example. In that case, your outrageous conduct must be attributed to bad manners and a most peculiar sense of humor."

"In that case," Sheila could not resist saying, "you will most certainly be relieved of my presence at once. If I were the most reprehensible person on the Continent, you could hardly have been less considerate of my feelings."

The Baronne sniffed. "When Sophia Belden has finished with you, you will think that I have been consideration itself."

"At any rate,' said Sheila, as a parting shot, "I will be relieved of Carlo's attentions."

The Baronne left the room without another word. "I'm afraid that that was 'one below the belt,' as Harry would say," Sheila laughed to herself.

However, the encounter with the Baronne served to dispel her feeling of gloom, and, when Mathilde informed her at tea-time that Miss Belden had arrived, she felt fairly equal to the ordeal of facing her. She was seized with an impish desire to confound her persecutors.

Before going down-stairs, however, Sheila spent a half hour before her mirror. When she turned away from it, she was wearing the same make-up that Constance Kerr used so effectively, and in lavish quantity. The Baronne, who had come to see what delayed her, was almost humble as Sheila, with her best imitation of Constance Kerr's bored arrogance glanced at her.

"We are having tea in the library," said the Baronne. "Miss Belden is already there."

Sheila was thankful that her first meeting with the dragon of the Kerr family was to take place in the dim old library, rather than in the pitiless light of the garden. That would help a lot.

"Remember, not a word, unless she says something," cautioned the Baronne. "We've said nothing to her of our doubts."

Sheila took a deep breath and crossed the threshold. In an armchair sat a militant-looking elderly woman, elegantly dressed. She looked, even now, very much like Constance Kerr. There was the same imperious manner, the same aristocratic features.

As Sheila entered, Miss Belden smiled. The Count and Harry, with whom she had been chatting, sprang up. There was an undeniable air of tension, but she did not seem to notice it.

"Ah, Constance, you nuisance," she said, as Sheila walked toward her. "What are you up to that Celia here must drag me all this distance? Want your old aunt's advice I suppose."

Her tone was as imperious as her manner, but she embraced Sheila warmly and patted her arm. "Lovely thing, even with all that truck on her face," she said, turning to the Baronne. "Always was my favorite niece — see myself in her, I suppose, that's why. . . . .Well, what are you all staring at," she demanded, suddenly aware that her audience was gazing at her fixedly.

WOODSIDE

The baseball team of the Woodside fire department added one more to its string of victories on Sunday, when it defeated the Ramblers of South San Francisco by a score of six to three. Out of the thirteen games played this season the team has won twelve. Hereafter the team will be seen in uniform. Through the generosity of some of Woodside's residents the team is to be completely outfitted. The suits will be gray with red stripes and the stockings red with white bands.

The annual renovation of the school has been completed. Stone steps and concrete curbs have been put in, the floors have been painted, the play-ground apparatus overhauled and various additions and improvements made so that all is spic and span for the opening of the new term which begins August 17th.

Fire Chief James F. Driscoll will represent the local fire department at the California Firemen's Association convention to be held at Santa Rosa beginning on August 5 and lasting for three days.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Jackson will leave for Los Angeles next week. While there Mr. Jackson will attend the convention of the American Legion.

Mrs. Peter Koehorst and her two daughters are visiting with relatives in Pasadena.

Mrs. Alanson Weeks and her daughter, Miss Leone, have just returned from a vacation in Honolulu.

Mayo Andreen and family of Tulsa, Oklahoma, will arrive on Saturday for a two weeks' visit with his mother, Mrs. Emma Andreen.

The local disciples of Nimrod are anxiously awaiting the opening of the deer season. Several parties have been organized for raids upon the haunts of the deer and wagers made as to who will bring the first trophies into town.

All those who have a love and a pride in the old California Missions will be glad to hear that much restoration and repair work has been done during the past year. San Diego de Alcala, the first of all the Missions to be established and one of the first to go into decay so that for the past fifty years nothing has been in evidence but the facade and the ruined outlines of the walls, has been completely restored during the last twelve months. Even the original bell tower that was early thrown down by earthquake so that it is lacking in all the familiar pictures of the Mission, has been rebuilt. The work has been done very carefully and reverently under the direction of a professor at the University of Calforna who has made a specal study of the architecture of the Missions. The old methods of construction have been employed and the completed structure has the appearance of an ancient structure that has survived the inroads of time rather than of a building newly constructed. San Luis Rey, Santa Inez, San Juan Bautista have all undergone repairs during the past year. San Miguel is now under going extensive repair work made necessary by the destructive operations of termites, and the hope is held out that William Randolph Hearts will restore San Antonio de Padua Mission that stands on property recently acquired by him adjoining his San Simeon Rancho.

Fruit Juices May Prove To Be New State Industry

Fruit Juices May Cease To Be Only a By-Product in California

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, July 27 (UP)—California's fruit raising industry may find increased health by going on a liquid diet.

In the opinion of agricultural experts, the production of fruit juices may become one of the leading industries of the state rather than remaining a "by-product" activity, according to a report on file with the state department of agriculture.

The increase in the development of fruit juices may be attributed to the improvement of freezing processes according to G. L. Marsh, laboratory assistant and M. A. Joslyn, graduate student, in the University of California fruit products division of the college of agriculture.

"We believe," Marsh stated, "that the preservation of fruit juices, especially citrus juices, by freezing will shortly develop into a leading industry in California. Even if all of the factors involved have not been completely solved, satisfactory commercial products have been evolved.

"The syrup pack method of packing such fruits as apricots and peaches has not solved all of the difficulties, but a fairly satisfactory product for a frozen desert can be packed. If necessary, California can follow in the footsteps of Georgia, where this method has been applied to peaches to be consumed in a frozen state.

"Commercial development of the preservation of avacado pulp and persimmon pulp by freezing is rapidly increasing in that state. Probably the fruit best suited to this method of preservation is figs."

While Marsh and Joslyn point out that California, at the present time, cannot compete with the berries cold packed in Oregon and Washington, they contend that "in the near future cold packed berries will play an important role in utilizing the surplus production in California."

It was further declared that the preservation of crushed fruits to be used in fruit ice creams and ices has reached a "fairly successful stage."

"Fair and Warmer" Appearing Oftener In Weather Reports

SACRAMENTO, July 27—(UP) — Meteorologically speaking, California as well as other states, is "moving south."

The weather prediction of "fair and warmer" is coming more and more into use—and the federal government has statistics to prove it.

According to a report by W. A. Mattice, member of the staff of the Washington office of the United States weather bureau, received here, the climate of the country is growing milder each year.

A basis for the contention is taken from a study of weather conditions made over a period of the last 10 years. Apparently the old-fashioned winter is going "out of style."

"It is a common experience of weather bureau officials to have people report continually that the weather is mild compared with times 'when we were young.' Such contentions have a real basis of fact," Mattice claims.

With the exception of 1929 and 1925, winters have been rather mild, with a tendency towards mildness being shown by the spring and autumn seasons.

At Sacramento, for instance, the report reveals that three winters were warm, six cool and one normal four springs were warm, five were warm and two cool. Thus, the summers and autumns have been constantly warm and the winters and springs relatively cool.

Grouping the results of the nation-wide survey, and taking the combined number of stations and seasons, 240 in all, there were 141 warm seasons, 90 cool, and only nine with approximately normal temperaturs.

As another indication of this change toward warmer temperatures, weather observers thoughout California have reported that it has been necessary to gradually change the figures known as "normal," with the temperature normal showing a steady increase.

Alexander Smallens To Conduct At Concerts in Woodland Theatre

Next Sunday afternoon's concert in the open air Woodland Theatre at Hillsborough will be conducted by Alexander Smallens, the fifth and last of the several guest conductors announced for this summer's series of programs.

Through education, training and professional activities Smallens eminently qualifies as an "American" conductor and he has achieved an enviable distinction in a number of important positions which he has held. Graduate of the College of the City of New York, and later of the Institute of Musical Art in the same city, he has been closely identified with many interesting musical enterprises in America during the last two decades.

For a season he was assistant conductor under Weingartner at the Boston Opera House and was chief conductor of the Opera-in-English venture in the New York Century Theatre. For three seasons he was conductor with the Chicago Opera Company, with which organization he visited California and conducted several performances in San Francisco.

Since its inception and during the past seven seasons, Smallens has been Musical Director of the Philadelphia Civic Opera Association, with which he has produced American premieres of modern operas as well as including the familiar standbys of the operatic repertoire.

Both last season and the current season, this energetic and ever active young conductor was appointed as Musical Director of the summer Symphony concerts in Philadelphia, and during the winter season is assistant conductor to Leopold Stokowski with the Philadelphia Orchestra.

Foreign engagements of Smallens include the directing of Opera in many European and South American Opera Houses, in many of which he was the first American to appear as conductor. He was also musical director for the only tour which the late Anna Pavlowa made in Central and South America and the West Indies.

For the first program in the Woodland Theatre, Smallens has arranged a well-balanced and varied program, certain to hold interest. The numbers are Beethoven's Third "Eroica" Symphony; the "Romeo and Juliet" Overture of Tshaikowski; the Emperor Waltz of Johann Strauss, and the exalted Tone Poem, "Don Juan" of Richard Strauss.

DISTILLERY WASTE KILLS FISH

ORILLIA, Ont., (UP) — Waste matter from a distillery on the Lindsay River is killing perch in the Kawartha Lake district, according to District Game Warden Peter Stevenson. Stevenson says that humors that thousands of bass and other game fish are being killed off are distorted.

YARDS IDLE FOR FIRST TIME

ESSEX, Mass., (UP)—For the first in three centuries, no ship is under construction in this famous ship-building village. The men ordinarily employed in the industry are busying themselves with farming, clam-digging and home renovations.

LEG SCRATCH COSTS $10

MARION, Va., (UP)—Charged with scratching the wrong person's leg, Henry Vernon was fined $10 in magistrate's court here. Vernon said he thought he was scratching his own extremity, but a young woman neighbor, who made the complaint, testified otherwise.

Expert Finds Capital Ideal As "Zep" Base

Balloonist Completes Survey In Search of Dirigible Field

Washington, July 30—(UP)—Ward T. Van Orman, twice international balloon racing champion and a noted meteorological expert, has chosen Washington as the center of the most desirable area on the United States coast for terminus of a trans-Atlantic dirigible line.

Van Orman has just completed a survey of all conditions here affecting the operation of dirigibles. He measured wind velocity, snow fall, rain fall, fog, frequency of thunderstorms, summer and winter temperatures and even soil conditions.

Among the principle cities in the desirable area finally chosen for the prospective dirigible base, Washington showed a small number of objections. The area extended from Philadelphia to Richmond.

Among the four principal cities named, Van Orman found that wind conditions were about the same in all. He found that Baltimore suffered more from fog. The northern part of the territory is more subject to heavy snowfall. Washington is outside the section of heaviest snows. Rainfall is about the same at most places, and wind conditions are better a little back from the coast, which would favor Washington.

The capital's chief disadvantage apparently was that it is near the belt of high southern temperatures in summer. Temperature is of importance, it was stated, for its effects on gases and on lifting capacity. Washington is in a favorable position, however, as regards frequency of thunderstorms. It ranks about equal with Philadelphia in this respect, having a smaller number annually than other nearby sections.

So satisfactory were the conditions at Washington that engineers of the Goodyear Company and the International Zeppelin Company have begun a geological survey of the proposed air base near here called Hybla Valley. Drainage for the field and soil compositions for foundations of a huge hangar are being investigated.

State Third in U. S. Exports

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 30 (UP) —California ranked third among all states of the union in exports of merchandise last year, with a total value of $304.876,298.

This was disclosed in a federal report just received by the state bureau of commerce.

The only states having larger exports than California were New York with $861,578,924, and Texas with $817,002,082, the report said.

Gasoline held first place in value among the state's exports during the year, amounting to $76,904,155, followed by unmanufactured cotton, $21,325,879; illuminating oil and gas, $16.767,742, and gas and fuel oil, $16,226,499.

Other leading products exported were: Prunes, $10,619.176; oranges, $9,979,685; crude petroleum, $8.857.-374; barley, $6,761,980, and sardines, $6,382,521.

Included in the diversified products exported by the state were evaporated milk, canned fish, eggs in shell, hides and skins, sole leather, leather manufactures, mules and burros, corn, rice, wheat, wheat flour, dried beans, grapefruit; boxed apples, peaches, canned fruit, nuts, honey, rubber tires, cocoanut oil, cigarettes, hops, paper, petroleum asphalt, electrical machinery, passenger automobiles, borax and explosives.

Alf claims he is the oldest continuous "pigskin beater" in Canada. He joined the band in 1879, and pounded his drum in the last Orangemen's parade last July 11.

Week at the State Capital

By MELVIN LORD

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 30—(UP) — California is far from "broke" despite the asserted lack of business. According to a report made by Rolland A. Vandegrift, state director of finance, cash, certificates of deposit and currency in the state treasury totaled $76.881,-255 on June 30, the close of the fiscal year, as compared with $71,-629,455 on the same date in 1930.

A state inspector of the division of weights and measures discovered a real antique the other day—and this one was in use. It was made up of a cane-like stick, a sliding weight and a pie tin, and was being used by an old Chinese peddled as a weighing scale. It was seized as "inaccurate." J. S. Casey, state sealer of weights and measures, said such contraptions were used frequently in the "old days," but this was the first one reported for more than 18 years.

The rotunda of the state capitol is resounding to its customary summer's quota of hammer blows. This time things are being done to the flag display cases on the second floor. The recesses are being deepened and new lights are being installed to provide for a more attractive exhibit.

Director of Finance Vandegrift has found a place at last where he can get a good days rest secure in the knowledge he will not be bothered by office seekers and politicians. The place is San Quentin prison. Vandegrift spent a weekend at the prison during the meeting of the state prison board. He voted it the finest resting place in the state.

In preparation or the 1931 California state fair, numerous improvements are being made at the fair grounds. New unloading tracks recently have been installed, and a new supply of water has been assured by means of a 460-foot well.

By means of a special audit authorized last January, the state board of equalization was able to collect $206,00 in gross receipts taxes levied against freight and passenger motor stage lines, which otherwise would have been lost to the state.

The 1931 act of the state legislature to extend state financial aid for the education of children of veterans killed in the World war, is constitutional in the opinion of Attorney General U. S. Webb.

The act was questioned by Ray L. Riley, state controller, who doubted the validity of the law because it was a gift of state funds in violation of the constitution. Webb said the legislation is in line with a somewhat similar act upheld by the state supreme court on the ground it was in furtherance of the general welfare by the promotion of patriotism.

The opening of the deer season will see Governor Rolph "among those present," red hat 'n' everything. The governor announced plans for his first real vacation to be started next week when he will go to Hearst, near Willetts, California, for the hunting expedition.

Contracting firms have a right to combine for the purpose of obtaining state work without first getting a joint license under the 1929 contractors license law. This is the opinion of Attorney General Webb given to Col. Walter E. Garrison, state director of public works.

Hospital To Study Insane Cases; Radio Waves May Be Used As Cure

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 28—(UP)—Relief for California narcotic victims and insane persons through scientific research is the aim of the state department of institutions.

The establishment of a central pathological laboratory at the Agnew state hospital in Santa Clara county represents the first step in this plan according to Dr. J. M. Toner, director of institutions.

"By means of one of the most modern laboratories in the country we hope to substitute research for less exact methods in attempting the cure of state wards,' Dr. Toner said.

The laboratory will be conducted under the direction of Dr. Leonard Stocking, medical superintendent, and Dr. Franz Proesher, Agnew pathologist and widely known research worker.

Research work, at first, will be concentrated on epileptics and narcotic victims from the various institutions who may be studied in groups of 50 or more.

It is hoped this study will permit the seggregation of the various types of mental disease inasmuch as this is held essential if better curative methods are to be developed.

As an indication of the steps already taken in the adoption of the most modern method of treatment, Dr. Toner announced that the use of radio waves of high frequency are being employed in the treatment of paresis cases in several of the hospitals.

This method of developing a high fever in a patient has been tentatively adopted to supplant the use of malaria infection first used during the World war as a means of counteracting and halting paresis.

This system of fighting an affliction produces a temperature in the patient of 105 to 107 degrees and reports received by the department indicate it has been responsible for marked improvement in cases at the Napa, Stockton and Norwalk state hospitals.

Construction of the new pathological laboratory probably will be started some time in September, it is stated.

Entertainment for Jobless

TORONTO, Ont., (UP) — Free movies and free books will be provided for Toronto's unemployed, if Mayor William J. Stewart's plans materialize. The mayor has instructed A. W. Laver, recently appointed City Commissioner of Public Welfare, to try to find some public-spirited citizen, or citizens, who will provide movie equipment and educational and instructive films, and high-class books.

Lightening Destroys Man's Pipe

RICHLANDS, Va., (UP)—Dick Blankenship was sitting on the front porch of his home here when lightening struck a tree in the yard and killed a cow and six pigs standing beneath it. Blankenship was unharmed, but the pipe he held in his hand was burned to a crisp, and soles of both his shoes were neatly ripped away.

FROG DROWNS ROBIN

LYNCHBURG, Va., (UP)—Park policeman Wesley Gilliam saw a robin dart into a pond and start flying away with a large bullfrog. The frog was too heavy and the robin dropped it into the pond only to return and try again. Several times it was obliged to drop back until finally the bullfrog managed to pull it down and keep the bird under the water until it was drowned.

Pond Fenced From Petters

LYNN, Mass., (UP)—Petters are going to cost this city $5,000. The money has been appropriated to erect a fence around Birch pond, a city water supply. Water Commissioner Thomas Health blamed petting parties for "polluting" the water. It was pointed out that some petters enjoyed moonlight bathing in the pond.

TOO STRONG

It seems that Artus, famous police hound of the Berkeley, Calif., police department, doesn't known his own strength, or, if he does, then sometimes forgets to "pull his punches." Artus shown above with Capt. J. A. Gracening, leaped over a railing at headquarters the other day and crashed into Desk Sergt. L. H. Laird, sending Laird to a hospital.

GOLD CARAVAN GUARDED

ELKO, (UP)—The "wild west" atmosphere of the movies was put to shame when a caravan of cars loaded with a ton of bullion bars arrived here from Jarbridge. Ten booted, sombreroed men accompanied the precious metal as guards. They were walking arsenals, armed to the teeth with six-guns, rifles, and sawed-off shotguns. The bullion was sent to the mint in Salt Lake City.

Mate Advances as Turf Money Winner

By his victories in the Preakness, the American Derby and the Arlington Classic, Mate has advanced to ninth place among the leading money winners of all time on the American turf.

Mate's smashing triumph in the Arlington Classic, richest race in the world this year for three-year-olds, brought his owner, A. C. Bostwick, New York millionaire, the sum of $73,650. Thus far Mate's winnings as a three-year-old total $173,675, placing him next to Zev and Gallant Fox as the greatest three-year-old money winner in history. As a two-year-old Mate won $58,650.

Gallant Fox, last year's three-year-old champion, won $308,275 in 1930 and Zev rolled up $272,008 in 1923. Despite the fact that he won 11 straight races Man O' War won only $166,140 in his three-year-old year.

The twleve leading money winners of the American turf follow: Gallant Fox, $328,165; Zev, $303,040; Sun Beau, $283,344; Blue Larkspur, $271,970; Display, $256,526; Victorian, $253,000; Exterminator, $252,596; Man O' War, $249,465; Mate, $232,775 Sarazen, $225,000; Crusader, $203,261; and Mike Hall, $201,529.

Mate has an excellent chance to boost his standing to fourth or fifth place before the season ends and he might surpass Gallant Fox's great record if he campaigned successfully as a four-year-old.

Sun Beau is another horse that has a chance to surpass Gallant Fox's record. This six-year-old horse owned by Willis Sharpe Kilmer is still winning handicap races, and has only a little over $40,000 to go to beat Gallant Fox's mark.

Twenty Grand missed a great chance to get up among the leaders by failing in the Arlington classic, but he yet may pass the $200,000 mark before the end of the season. Twenty Grand's present total is $178,575.

ALPINE, Tex., (UP)—Jack O'Conner, who deserted his job here as English instructor in the Sul Russ State Teachers College to write books, is in Hollywood gathering material for a satirical novel about the movie colony. O'Conner is the author of "Conquest," which caused quite a stir when it was released last year.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad tasto and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Recent a substitute.

1930 WAS THE BIGGEST YEAR FOR ICE

Politically Speaking

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 30—(UP)—State Senator Tallant Tubbs of San Francisco is about to throw his hat in the ring for United States senator.

If he enters the race, mind you, Tubbs would be the only wet candidate in a field of drys. The young man who came within 18,000 votes of being elected lieutenant governor of California on a modification platform last fall would probably put up a formidable contest in a race where five or six candidates are seeking the same position.

Tubbs hasn't made his announcement yet, but his intimate friends declare he is just on the verge. This too, explains his reluctance to become a candidate for the mayorship of San Francisco, which "Sunny Jim" Rolph vacated when he was elevated to the governorship of California.

So it begins to look as if there will be plenty of challengers to Senator Samuel M. Shortridge. This week Congressman Joe Crail of Los Angeles declared he would seek the Republican nomination at the August Primary in 1932.

Former Governor Friend W. Richardson, Congressman Phil D. Swing, and Leo V. Youngworth, Los Angeles attorney and ex-Shriner "pote" are others who are widely mentioned.

It's being said that every state senator and assemblyman is a potential candidate for congress Judging from the aspirants who are waiting around to hear whether the proposed referendum on the new reapportionment laws will qualify, the statement is about right. It will be August 15 before it is known whether the question goes on the ballot.

Meanwhile Assemblyman Walter J. Little of Santa Monica let it be known he will run for congress in his home district. This removes the possibility of another Little-Levy fight for speakership at the 1933 legislature. Little, you'll remember, lost the post by the narrow margin of one vote last January. The bad feeling engendered in that election lasted throughout the whole legislative session.

Then there's Robert L. Patterson of Taft, administration whip in the 1931 assembly, who has announced his candidacy for congress in the new Kern county district. If Friend W. Richardson decides to run for U. S. senator, then Assemblyman Harry Cloudman of Berkeley may seek the new Alameda-Contra Costa congressional position.

The new third personal secretary to Governor Rolph will be assigned full time in the Los Angeles office, it was disclosed to the United Press this week. Francis Cochran, the governor's present executive secretary, will likely be transferred to the Los Angeles office, and the governor will probably name a newspaper man to the Sacramento job.

For a long time Rolph has felt the need of a newspaper man in his office here, where a dozen state capitol correspondents of the press associations and large California daily papers are stationed the year round. Several prominent newspaper men have their applications in for the $5,000-a-year secretaryship, but the governor expects to take his own sweet time making the appointment, and may delay it until the first of next year.

Picking Your Right Job

By HARVEY WILEY CORBETT
Architectural committee chairman
As told to J. V. Fitzgerald
Of the American School of the Air

No one would advise you to choose music as a profession if it were known in advance that you had no ear for music, or took no especial interest or enjoyment in it. The safest pre-requisite would be a finely attuned ear. In like manner, one entering architecture as a profession should have a finely attuned eye. In other words, you should have, first of all, what might be termed a "picture" mentality. By this I mean a natural ability to see things and to retain a fairly clear mental image of those things which would make it possible, with training, for you to reproduce them in picture form without having to return to the original object in order to recall your impression.

The entrant into the field of architecture should have that mental quality which gives a proper background for the visual arts and a keen interest in the matter of construction processes and methods of putting materials together. Above all else, an intuitive sense of beauty is essential.

To direct work intelligently in so broad a field requires great general knowledge as well as long years of technical training. A college course, extending in most of our schools over a period of six years, is required.

It is rather difficult to say very accurately what an education in architecture costs. The amount would vary with the college you attended. The cost would range for a six-year course, from $6,000 to $10,000. Travel abroad is an advantage, but it isn't essential to your future success.

BRITISH OARSMEN PICKED FOR WORLD HONORS

LONDON, July 30 (UP)—London Rowing Club and Oxford University will attempt to gain premier rowing honors for Great Britain at Long Beach, Cal., during the coming Olympic Games.

Eight and four oared crews of London R. C. and a pair of oars from Christ Church, Oxford, will match brawn, courage and style with the world's best over the smooth waters of the Long Beach estuary. The three boats have won the right to represent Britain by achieving victories in the finals of their respective events at Henley.

Leander, the backbone of British rowing, could challenge the right of these crews to compete for Britain, but time-honored tradition decrees that winners at Henley in the year previous to the Olympics shall sit in Olympic crew seats.

British rowing experts believe the London four cannot possibly lose and that the eight and pair of oars will reach the finals of the tenth Olympiad.

London, classed with Thames as the strongest tideway rowing club, has two splendid eight-oar crews. The first boat averages 174 pounds per man.

G. D. Drinkwater, Oxford Old Blue and one of Britain's foremost critics, said after London won the Grand: "The London eight is one of the greatest I have ever seen—in more than 35 years.

"Without hesitation their four was the finest coxswinless boat which has raced at Henley in the past 30 years."

The four-oared boat which Drinkwater praises so highly is Britain's challenge to the rowing world. Upon the success of this crew Britons are willing to have their rowing judged.

Planes Battle Timber Worms For Foresters

Government Experimenting In West Coast Looper War

OLYMPIA, Wash., July 30—(UP)—Aviation and man's ingenuity combined in the state's latest drive to eradicate the ravaging hemlock looper of Pacific County, Washington.

The experiment is the first ever attempted in the United States, according to state officials. The work will cover a 5,400 acre tract of forest lying near the Pacific Ocean and will cost approximately $18,000.

Two special airplanes, costing $11,000 each, are being used. Each plane is equipped with special compartments with agitators to force a supply of calcium arsenate through openings in the fuselage floor. On each trip 1,000 pounds of the powdered poison will be carried.

Pilots will fly about 40 feet above the infected areas and dust the tree tops. The planes are kept under perfect control, following closely the timber tops in windrows."

A base of supply and landing field was established on the ocean beach. The work is costing the state and private owners $89 an hour. More than fifty tons of powder will be spread.

Slowly but surely the dust will kill the pests, according to state officials. The looper's attack is always confined to the upper-most branches of trees. Some of the worms die within a few hours while others may survive the withering blast for several days, depending on weather conditions and uniformity of the dust spray.

Because the looper confines his attack to the new tender needles through which trees "breathe," attempts to exterminate it with ground equ pimthrneopetdv cmfwy The worms were able to climb out of rage of the deadly acids, it was found.

Turtle Trademark Unlucky

TORONTO, Ont., (UP)—If you manufacture goods bearing the likeness of a turtle as trademark, change your trademark before trying to sell in China, advises Col. I. M. Cosgrove, Canadian Trade Commissioner at Shanghai. In China, the turtle is a "bad joss" character and an insult, says Colonel Cosgrove. One firm which shipped to China were "stuck", according to him.

Propose Study Of State Crime

Statewide Survey of State's Penal System May Cut Cost of Taxes

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 30 — (UP)—Peace officers of San Mateo county will be asked to aid in a state wide crime study to be undertaker by California within the next month.

Authorized by the 1931 legislature, the study will be made over a period of two years, with the findings to be reported to the governor and the legislature in 1933 for the purpose of forming a basis for possible legislation "to improve our penal system."

One of the first phases of the survey will include a study of costs, representing at the present time an important portion of the taxpayer's dollar.

Particular attention is to be paid to the effectiveness or lack, of our present penal methods, including the value of the varieties of punishments which are applied under existing laws.

Other phases of the penal system as set up in California which will be closely scrutinized is the classification and segregation of county and state prisoners.

In order to make the survey really comprehensive, the bill provides that it shall be the duty of "all state officers" to co-operate in the investigation. This includes particularly the personnel of the departments of penology and institutions, the California crime commission, the bureau of criminal identification and investigation, and the bureau of public administration of the University of California.

In addition to this group, first hand data will be gathered and submitted by the local officers of the individual counties and cities, including their recommendations for improvements in existing laws.

It is hoped by sponsors of the survey that the investigation will make it possible for the state to enact laws whereby ample protection may be given citizens at less cost, at the same time affording offenders full consideration from a standpoint of justice.

UNITED PRESS

Fewer Cars Found With Poor Brakes

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 30—(UP)—California motorists are becoming "brake conscious."

This is the report of E. Raymond Cato, superintendent of the state highway patrol, who says that a report of his traffic patrolmen for the first 6 months this year shows a marked decrease in cars operating with defective brakes.

During the 6 month period, officers stopped and examined brakes on 76,490 automobiles. Of these, only 6,385 of 8.35 per cent were found to have defective brakes.

Of a total of 4,532 cars tested in San Mateo county only 277 or 6.13 per cent were found to have defective brakes.

"We hope to see a time in California when cars with defective brakes are eliminated from the highways entirely," said Cato.

"They are a menace to life and property. It will be the policy of the highway patrol to continue the inspection of brakes as part of the patrolmen's regular duties, rather than by spasmodic campaigns that relieve the situation only temporarily."

Cato recommended that all motorists about to start on vacations or trips to distant points have their brakes checked before sarting on the trip.

It is not necessary for the motorist to have a brake certificate to drive his car, nor is it compulsory to patronize an official brake-testing station after being cited for bad brakes.

Official stations are merely designated for the convenience of the public, he explained. The person cited by an officer may have his brakes adjusted at an official station and mail his certification together with his citation to the patrol officer to clear his record. Or he may have his brakes adjusted at a private garage and clear his record by appearing to have his brakes retested.

Chevrolet Opens Bumper Factory

DETROIT, Mich., July 30 — Operations were started recently in the new bumper manufacturing plant of the Chevrolet Motor Company in this city, W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager of the company, announced today.

Construction of the new plant, which has a total floor space of 35,000 square feet, was started early this spring and completed last month. Included in the mechaical installations are several innovations designed to facilitate the handling and fabrication of material.

The plant has an average monthly capacity of 70,000 sets of bumpers, Mr. Knudsen said. Actual production was started on May 26th, and it is expected that a full normal schedule will be in effect within the next few weeks.

This development is one of the few expansions made within the automobile industry within the past eighteen months and is Chevrolet's second within a year. The other was the purchase and operation of a commercial body building plant in Indianapolis, last fall.

Construction of the bumper plant brings the number of Chevrolet domestic factories up to 21, and enables the company to exercise further supervision over materials, workmanship, and design of the features in the current lines of new sixes.

HOLLYWOOD'S FILM SHOP

HOLLYWOOD, July 30 (UP) — Erin O'Brien Moore received excellent notices in New York, London and Chicago for her work in "Street Scene." Then the play came to Los Angeles for a long run and all of the movie moguls went to see it.

Samuel Goldwyn finally won the screen rights for production under the United Artists banner, while M. G. M., Goldwyn's one-time organization, captured Miss O'Brien Moore's signature on a contract.

It took 160 tests to finally decide upon John Hamilton as the portrayer of the leading role, that of the Inspector, in the series of S. S. Van Dine mystery stories to be produced by the Vitaphone Corporation. While the Van Dine stories will be produced as short subjects, each one a complete story, the role is of more importance than most feature picture leads inasmuch as the Inspector, together with only one other character, the Doctor, appears throughout the entire series of 12 pictures.

John Hamilton is well-known upon the legitimate stage, having appeared with the original cast of "Lightnin' " with Frank Bacon for four years, more recently with Ann Harding and Helen Menken and last season in Geo. M. Cohan's "Rhapsody" and "Heads Up." He is presently appearing at the 48th Street Theatre in "Unexpected Husband."

"The Clyde Mystery," the first picture of the Van Dine series, will go into production the early part of August.

Naturally it must come about through some governmental agency. Common practice is to either incorporate into a separate and distinct municipality or to become annexed to one already in existence and thereby enjoy its rights and privileges by the assumption of equal obligations.

"The district involved consists of a separate built up area of approximately two square miles of valuable residential property with a population of some 1200 or 1500. Its topographic condition and general geographic location is such that for some time to come it most certainly would not be economic to consider its organization into a separate and distinct municipality, yet its transfusion from that of a strictly rural district to that of a built-up area is rapidly taking place and this with no regard to the protection of person or property. Suitable fire and police protection reasonable building and sanitary regulation, proper sewage disposal, adequate water supply and appropriate city planning are vital necessities that can only be secured through unified efforts which in this case can, I believe, best be obtained through annexation. In the plan proposed, if adopted, all capital expenditures together with a portion of the operating costs pertaining to normal governmental operations would be provided by the city at large after annexation and, therefore, only a small percentage of the costs of these facilities would be born by the district. In addition to this each type of service would be backed up by the organized city departments already functioning in experienced executives with no allowance made for overheads.

"In conclusion, I wish it clearly understood that the above represents only my personal views on the matter which are subject to modification and in no way binding upon the city."

"Respectfully submitted,

"E. A. ROLISON,
"City Manager."

Damage Suits Filed Here Against S. P.

Two suits, one by the widow and children of the deceased, the other by an insurance company, were filed against the Southern Pacific Company this week as the result of the death of Manuel Pimentel, an employee of the Mills estate at Millbrae. Pimentel is alleged to have died as the result of injuries sustained when he opened the door of a box car loaded with bailed hay, and a bale fell from the car and struck him.

One of the suits is filed by Mrs. Anna Pimentel, widow, who demands $30,000 for his death on the part of herself and children. The other suit is for the Hartford Accident Insurance Company, and is for $7,158.75, which the company alleges it paid out in hospital and medical expenses for Pimentel and as compensation. Both suits were filed by Bronson, Bronson & Slaven, attorneys of San Francisco.

Office Fees Are Revenue Source

$66,517 Collected in Fees in San Mateo County in Fiscal Year

(U.P.)—Fees collected by county offices constitute one of the most important revenue-producing features of California county governments.

Without these fees, many of the governments could not operate. Last year in the 58 counties of the state, county officials turned over a total of $3,537,399 to their respective treasuries.

The county recorder .who collects the various license fees and similar charges by the counties was by far the greartest contributor to the total. Recorder's fees represented nearly half or $1,699,252, of the total collections.

In San Mateo county a total of $66,517 in fees was reported for the year, of which $39,856 was accounted for by the recorder's office.

Next to the recording came the county clerk. As a revenue producing agent for the county. The county clerks reported a grand total of $822,918 in fee collections last year. Other totals were as follows:

Sheriff, 128,743; justices of the peace, $254.239; superintendents of schools, $35,266, and miscellaneous, $543,303.

Los Angeles county, with a total of $1,742,909, led the list of counties in total amount collected from fees. The next seven highest ,in order, were: San Diego, $151,901; San Bernardino, $104,557; Orange ,$92-789; Santa Clara. $85,209; Sacramento, $80,913; Fresno, $80,796, and San Mateo, $66,517.

Alpine county, smallest county in the state in population was also smallest in fees callected with a total of $393.70, of which $380 was reported by the county recorder, $10 by the clerk, and $3.50 by the auditor.

Flood Will Case

Asked if she had known a "Victor Strum," she said she knew a Dr. Victor Strum of Los Angeles. She had been engaged to him, she said, and he had come to San Francisco from Los Angeles and ordered a trousseau for her and then went south again. The wedding did not take place. Later, when talking to the priest, she selected the name "Stern" for the child's father "because it reminded her of Dr. Strum and a Boston department store she used to like." The reason for the use of "Victor" was not brought out.

In regard to her daughters first deposition in which she had claimed that Flood was the girl's father, Mrs. Forde said that she knew that it was untrue.

"Why didn't you tell the attorneys for the Flood estate when they called on you that your daughter had made a false statement regarding Constance May's parentage if you knew she was not the daughter of James L. Flood?" she was asked on cross-examination.

"Because I didn't want to blast my daughter's reputation," she snapped.

"You knew she made a deposition that Flood was the father of Constance May, didn't you?"

"I told her not to make that deposition, I told her not to testify Flood was her father."

"Did you ever hear her say Flood was the father?"

"She never told me he was the father. I always knew it was Cannon."

In regard to large sums of money given them by Mrs. Rose Flood and after her death by James Flood, Mrs. Forde and Mrs. Willette stated that the money was given them because they were friends. Upon taking the baby, Mrs. Forde stated, Mrs. Flood had paid all their back board bills, and other bills and had given them enough money to go back east on.

In 1898, through an attorney, Henry L. Kowalsky, Mrs. Forde declared she and Mrs. Willette obtained $5000 from Flood.

"Col. Kowalsky called us," Mrs. Forde related, "and showed us a check for $5000 signed by Mr. Flood and payable to Mr. Kowalsky, who kept $1200 for his fee, giving us $3800."

Mrs. Forde insisted Flood had given them the money "because we had been friends of his dead wife."

Mrs. Forde said that in 1901 she and Mrs. Willette had been called to Garret W. Enerney's office where several persons were present, including Father .McDonald, Constance May and a nurse, McEnerney then, as now, was chief council for the Flood family.

"Father McDonald asked us." Mrs. Forde related, "why we couldn't take Constance may. We replied that we had no place to take the child. Some man, whom I could not see, said, 'We'll send her to a convent.' "

A few days later, according to Mrs. Forde, she and Mrs. Willette visited Constance May at Mission Dolores convent.

"That was the last time I ever saw the child," she said.

On Wednesday the whole day was occupied by a cross examination of Mrs. Willette by John Taaffe, chief counsel for Mrs. Gavin. Point after point was gone over in this examination. In regard to the signed affidavit which she had made years ago, and in which she claimed that the father of the girl was an Edward Stren. Mrs. Willette admitted that all she had said of the paternity of the child at that time was false. Asked by Taaffe if she had claimed that James Flood was the father of the child, Mrs. Willette exclaimed, "Why, I wouldn't lie about it."

This statement was too much for the crowd in the courtroom even under the stern eye of Judge Buck, and a snicker ran through the room. This caused the judge to order Bailiff Joe Meeks to clear the courtroom of all who were not sitting.

Late in the afternoon, Mrs. Willette succumbed to a fit of hysteria during the questioning and had to be led from the court room while Judge Buck called a recess. Judge Buck asked Taaffe if his questioning of Mrs. Willette could be completed that day, and Taaffe said that he had more questions to put to the witness than he could get through in that time.

BERKELEY, July 29, (U.P.)—Policeman E. J. Mann stubbed his toe while walking a beat before dawn today. Looking down he saw a midget automobile parked in the center of the sidewalk.

When he found the car was locked, Mann called another policeman, W. E. Schmidt, and they carried the machine to the police garage a block away.
